

The Phi ARROW

FALL 2014

ALUMNI CHAPTER PRESIDENT'S LETTER

INSIDE
THE ARROW

Greetings!

"Stand up, and Lead." This was the charge given by Alumnus brother and recently re-elected Grand Chapter President Dick Elder at the 158th Anniversary Convention and 36th School of Fraternity Practices in Minneapolis, Minnesota this summer. As you hold this issue of the Arrow in your hands, brothers, I hope it finds you well.

It is an exciting time to be a brother of Theta Chi Fraternity! On the national level, we are in the top three fastest growing NIC fraternities, and along with our expansion comes many benefits to our local undergraduate chapter. More relevant to you as an alumnus of Phi chapter, I am happy to report that Theta Chi Fraternity at NDSU remains one of the most decorated and consistently excellent chapters of our fraternity. It is truly a testament to all of the brothers who have at one point or another lent an assisting hand to Phi through their time or resources.

On a local level, it is also a great time to be a Bison! In this issue, as well as in many other news outlets, NDSU's continued growth and success has been widely publicized. While the recent ESPN Gameday coverage of the Football program is the most recent item to hold the spotlight, expansion in research and campus programming continues to make NDSU the premier institution in our area.

Finally, growth in Fargo and the state of North Dakota has added to the prosperity of residents in the Peace Garden State. Low unemployment and many opportunities in the area has kept many graduates in the state.

In other words, brothers, the timing is perfect for us to do great things! I am pleased to report that the status of our capital campaign is healthy and we are on schedule to accomplish our goal of raising $1.9 million for the renovation for our chapter house at 1307 N. University Drive. A team of dedicated volunteers led by Rick Buresh has been working hard to secure gifts and plan for the future of the campaign. Alumnus brother Russ Handegard is working to complete a construction timeline for the project moving forward that will incorporate input from our undergraduate brothers and combine it with the needs of a new residence for the next 100 years of Phi Chapter.

Alumni involvement on a local level is one of the most crucial factors in sustaining a meaningful and positive experience for our undergraduate brothers. As you jovially recall your experiences at NDSU, amidst the dense fog of time, it is my hope that your memories of the time spent at Theta Chi are still vivid. What Theta Chi means to you on a personal level is something unique; something special that disambiguates our brotherhood from any other group or club of which you may have been a part.

Our call as brothers in this great fraternity is to continue to lend an assisting hand. In the next few years, you can anticipate that you will be contacted with a plea for help. Whether we ask for your time, your talents, or your resources, my challenge to you is to live up to our values and our challenge to "Stand up and Lead." This is truly a remarkable time for our fraternity, and I invite you to reconnect with Theta Chi. I look forward to seeing you at our Pig Banquet event on Saturday, March 28, 2015 at the Avalon event center.

"Take care, brothers!"

State of the Active Chapter

Hello from Phi Chapter! We hope that your summer was filled with great weather, delicious food, and time to kick back and relax. We look forward to your return to Fargo for Homecoming or any other time that you are around. The active chapter is fired up for another year and is looking forward to doing many great things on campus and in the community.

Spring recruitment yielded another impressive group of men who possess the qualities that make up a brother. Twelve men were initiated, bringing our total membership to 76 at the end of the academic year. Nine men also graduated and are moving into the next phase of their lives as members of new communities and as alumni of Phi.

This summer we sent a number of members to Minneapolis for the Theta Chi National Convention. Actives met with alumni, went to a twins game, and watched brother Kyle Sebesta receive his Colley Award. Actives participated in breakout sessions to learn more about Theta Chi and to bring new excitement to the chapter.

Phi chapter has been proud of recent accomplishments of many brothers this last year. Kyle Mason received the Dale Brostrom student of the year award for his services on campus, August Nuutinen was awarded a full ride scholarship through the Army ROTC program, and Zach Thelen became Mr. NDSU, in which he participated in a male talent competition which raised money for autism awareness.

We also hosted a meal for Dean Bresciani, the president of North Dakota State University.

With Homecoming just around the corner, Phi chapter is eagerly awaiting the return of alumni. We hope that you are able to celebrate with us, socialize with brothers, and celebrate our successes. We are looking forward to another great year. It is a great time to be a Theta Chi!

Alumni Council Treasurer Update

Hello fellow alumni! It has been another busy year for the alumni council and campaign committee; we are so grateful for all of your generosity and support of our Phi Now and Theta Chi for Life campaigns.

To date this year we have received $8,120 for the Theta Chi for Life campaign. Total donations since the campaign started in 2000 is: $117,274. There are some of you that have yet to fulfill your pledge for this year so I plan to send out reminders later this fall. As always thank you to everyone that has contributed!

The silent phase of the Phi Now campaign is progressing well and it has been exciting working with all of the donors to find a way to support the campaign that best fits their needs. If you have any questions about how to donate to either the Phi Now or Theta Chi for Life campaigns feel free to give me a call or email any time.

“Go Bison!”

Campaign Momentum Gets A Lift

Thanks so much to John Bang for his generous gift of $ 50,000 dedicated to the memory of his brother, Tom (more on this later). Thanks also to Roger Gjeldstad for facilitating this contribution. This makes for a most-welcome kickstart to re-energize the campaign as we come off of summer distractions. As of July 29 the pledge total was $ 776,355. By the time you read this I predict that it will be over $ 800,000 on our way to $ 2,000,000.

I've met recently with Mike Morrissey (early 60's) and Jim Gompf (early 50's) to get their help in identifying and contacting key prospects from those eras. It's been a lot of fun visiting with these senior statesmen of the chapter.

Thanks to all who have stepped forward for this early phase of the campaign. For those who are yet to give look forward to a visit during the general campaign beginning at Homecoming 2014 under the leadership of Cory Loveless.

Fraternally,

Brothers Reunited

Early this spring I got a call from a brother in Fargo who was interested in getting a group of NDSU folks together for a Twins game. After getting nothing but positive feedback from other brothers, we set the date for mid-May.

We met up on a Friday for a few beers before the game then headed to Target Field. All during the game there was a lot of catching up and reminiscing with each other. After the 9th ended, we all headed to a nearby pub to get a bite and enjoy being in the company of brothers for the rest of the night.

None of this is exactly ground breaking, but the point is how a simple phone call and a little initiative turned into a great night with friends. The group of guys that met up that night spanned over 10 years at

Phi Chapter. I hadn't seen some of the guys in a few years, and it was pretty awesome to hear how everyone was transitioning in their post-college lives.

We have a strong alumni presence in the Twin Cities and Fargo, so it definitely makes sense to take advantage of that and get some group activities thrown together. It was a ton of fun, and it would be awesome to do more events like this.

Theta Chi National Convention

Greetings Brothers,

I am reporting back from Theta Chi National Convention and School of Fraternity Practices, held July 16-19 in downtown Minneapolis. We had great undergraduate and alumnus attendance! Thank you to all who took time out of their busy schedules to be a part of the weekend. Our chapter got a great education, met brothers from around the country, learned about new fraternity initiatives, and won a few awards as well.

During the School of Fraternity Practices, Thursday through Saturday morning, undergraduates received education about how to successfully operate the chapter and how to prepare themselves for life after graduation. Alumni also had some educational breakout sessions about housing campaigns, chapter advisory boards, and chapter housing corporations. Look forward to plenty of new ideas coming back to the chapter in the near future!

International Headquarters also put together an outstanding lineup of keynote speakers. Brigadier General Stan Cherrie talked about his career in the Army and what his definition of teamwork is all about. Theta Chi staff unveiled their new initiative, The Sacred Purpose, and how it is meant to transform the undergraduate experience. Additional keynote speakers talked about dealing with alcohol problems and securing jobs in our current job market.

After long days of convention programming, the group of 400 Theta Chi brothers all headed over to Target Field to watch a Twins game. The Theta Chi National Quartet even sung the National Anthem!

Convention came to a close Saturday with the biennial business meeting in the afternoon and the awards banquet Saturday night; and it sure turned out to be a good night for Phi Chapter alumni! Three Brothers received some of the highest awards they can receive, making Phi chapter the only chapter to have more than one member win an award.

Brother Jim Hardwick received a well-deserved Earl D. Rhodes Theta Chi for Life Award for his continued service to the fraternity. It is the 2nd highest award a brother in Theta Chi can receive, so congrats Brother Hardwick! Brother Dale Hetland received the Sidney Ann Gilpin Lewis Award for excellence in exemplifying our motto by assisting others in need. We had the pleasure of hearing the story firsthand from Brother John Kragness, who was the recipient of Dale's kidney in a selfless, lifesaving act. Dale is a extremely humble person so it was great to see him get recognition for his generous act of brotherhood. Additionally, I was presented with the 2013 Reginald E.F. Colley Award for outstanding service to alma mater, fraternity, and chapter. It was an honor to receive the award in front of 400 fraternity brothers and 15 Phi Chapter brothers and I was proud to bring the Colley Award back to Phi Chapter. Thank you to all who helped make these awards possible. I'll speak for the other award winners in saying that we are thankful for our Phi Chapter brothers who shaped our Theta Chi experience and we are glad to have represented Phi Chapter alumni at convention.

If you are looking to get involved as an alumnus or connect with alumni from across the country, please join us in Atlanta, Georgia for the 2016 Convention or in Las Vegas, Nevada for the 2018 Convention! Feel free to contact me with any questions pertaining to this convention or future conventions.

Lewis Award Recipient Announced

From, ThetaChi.org

Theta Chi Fraternity is proud to announce the 2013/2014 recipient of the Lewis Memorial Trophy. This year, an alumnus member was recognized for his commitment to helping others in need:

Dale J. Hetland, Phi/North Dakota State University 1992

National Secretary Doug Miller presents the Lewis Award to Dale Hetland.

Dale Hetland gave a special gift; he made a sacrifice simply from the goodness of his heart and because he felt it was the right thing to do.

When Dale learned that the life of fellow chapter brother, Jon Kragness (Phi/North Dakota State 1992), was being threatened by kidney failure, he decided to be tested to see if he was a match. The tests revealed that he was a suitable donor, and arrangements were immediately made for him to donate a kidney to a brother he had not seen in many years.

Shortly before the transplant surgery, Dale contacted his friend, former National President Douglas Allen, to let him know that he would be in a Minneapolis area hospital for a few days. Dale just wanted Doug to know, but didn't think he would need anything.

Doug Allen shares, "After a great deal of concerned prodding, Dale finally relented and told me the reason he would be in the hospital. His reluctance to share his wonderful offering is demonstrative of his humility and unassuming nature."

The transplant was a success and we are happy to report that Brother Kragness and his family are doing well. Our brother gave of himself to save the life of a brother. His actions not only exemplify our motto of "An Assisting Hand," but also reinforce the concept of "Theta Chi for Life."

Brother Hetland has never sought any recognition for his selfless act. He only consented to be nominated for this honor because Brother Kragness encouraged him to use their story to promote organ donation.

It is Theta Chi Fraternity's deepest honor to name Dale J. Hetland the recipient of the 2013/2014 Sidney Ann Gilpin Lewis Award.

Remebering the Dream Girl of Theta Chi

When Donna Kjonaas, Theta Chi Dream Girl in school year 1967-68, was the solitary fourth grade student in a one-room school north-east of Minot she could not possibly have imagined the path her life would take. That this child, soon to be a shy and demure young woman, would be not only Dream Girl of Theta Chi, but NDSU Homecoming Queen and wear half a dozen other crowns and titles before graduation from college, bemuses her to this day.

There were 17 students in grades 1 through 8 in the country school near Glenburn, ND. Teachers needed to find rooms with local farmers so they could get to the school on those worst of winter days. Asked to recall her fondest memories of those times the answer comes easily—harvest time. Helping her mother prepare mounds of food for the evening meals, catered to the men in the fields where large blankets would be thrown on the stubble, and hot delicious food served to all—life suspended in those moments—an awakening of an appreciation for the fullness available in life.

Following school consolidation, and engaged with a larger school population, Donna began to enjoy learning for its own sake: she and a fellow student who would be her co-valedictorian would push each other fiercely toward new challenges. She sensed, however, that she was a “country kid”; she knew people put her in that slot. When she and her best pal were not invited to the junior prom they took matters into their own hands—they invited two senior boys, the so not-done thing!

In the autumn following graduation Donna and her friend headed to Minneapolis where they would attend the Lutheran Bible Institute, later known as Golden Valley Lutheran College. Closed in 1985, the buildings are now home to the Perpich Center for Arts Education. It was very much the start of a Classics education, where she encountered Greek, Latin, and theology. By the end of the school year she sensed the curriculum was not a good fit.

Returning to the farm during the summer Donna and her parents settled on NDSU as the place to continue her education. After all, she was a child of the land; the land grant university would be a better fit.

When I asked about going Greek, Donna said it was an easy decision for a somewhat shy and introverted person. What was not to like about a ready-made set of sisters...a social circle that came to one without great expenditure of energy taking away from one's studies? She pledged and went active at the Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority—a decision she has never regretted.

Donna's undergraduate degree at NDSU began in the Home Economics Department where she was drawn to the art coursework that was offered, albeit limited—not enough in those days to warrant a degree. She then switched curriculum again graduating with a BS in Speech and Audiology.

I asked Donna what she remembered about becoming Dream Girl. A broad smile broke across her face. “That is a huge mystery to me,” she said. “I wonder to this day if there were any politics involved...and who might have been involved in them?”

I smiled back. “I remember five Dream Girls. And I have no recollection of how any of them were chosen. They were adorable; I loved every one, but I didn't have the courage to ask any for a date. They were all above my pay grade.”

Donna married soon after graduation and her husband's career took them to Chicago. Quick to seize the advantage of location, she started a master's program in Communication Disorders at Northwestern. When they moved to Wisconsin she then finished the MS at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

Following completion of this degree Donna worked in public schools in WI, TX, CA, and GA, both in service delivery, and ultimately in coordination and administration.

A few years later, living in South Dakota, Donna felt a pull back to student status. She completed a second master's degree in Guidance and Counseling. Engaged in that field for a time she reengaged matters of spirituality first awakened as a child on the farm. She attended United Theological Seminary in the Twin Cities and attained a Master of Divinity degree. She subsequently served twelve years in full-time ministry for the First United Methodist Church in Sioux Falls and surrounds.

As we worked our way toward the end of the interview there were a couple of questions I was saving.

“If you could speak to a room filled with young men/women about to engage Rush Week, what words of advice would you have for them?”

Next Page

Donna answered without hesitation, “Live in the moment, and assess whether the context of Greek life will help you to achieve success and the life goals you have set for yourselves.”

“Any thoughts you’d like to share with the guys who remember you from your year as Dream Girl?”

“I remember the Brothers of Phi Chapter as gracious, and hope that I was as well. I felt honored to have been chosen.”

Fraternally,
Mike Morrissey 807 Φ

Where are they now?

Donna lives in Fargo with her husband Murray Smith. She maintains a studio where she passionately pursues Fiber Arts with longtime ministerial colleague, artist, and friend Vicki Kessler. Their collaborative work is frequently found on display in the Fargo-Moorhead area, around the State, Midwest, and Florida.

Mike Morrissey is a retired school administrator (Chicago) who returned home to ND in 1996. A graduate NDSU ’62, ’65, & Indiana ’72, he is best remembered as the Phi kitchen steward who took the “Good Book” to heart and fed the hungry in the wee hours of the morning. Ma Stock, cook in the early 60s, taught him how to peel potatoes and make egg coffee.

Phi Chapter Scholarships

Last spring at Pig Banquet, we recognized 4 undergraduate leaders with scholarships. The Phi chapter scholarship is the result of hard work by alumnus brothers Jason Middaugh and Jerry Specht. They researched scholarship administration options and solicited donations from fellow alumni to get the fund up and running, along with generously donating money themselves. Thanks to Jason, Jerry, and to all the alumni who has made this possible!

Following are profiles of the students who are benefitting from the scholarship this year.

Schuyler Long

I am an Electrical Engineering Student from Rochester, MN. My ultimate goal through my career is to help change the world in some way. I am focusing in Biomedical Engineering because I think that I can have the biggest impact in the community and world if I help save lives or improve them. I really like to hunt, fish and hang out with friends for my hobbies. I am a big believer in giving back to the community because I love the FM area and want to see it flourish for years to come. I like seeing people succeed in what they do, so I might pursue a Master’s Degree and possibly a Doctorate after I graduate and get some work experience so I can possibly educate others about my profession, but I’m not quite sure about that yet.

Becoming a member of Theta Chi has been the most rewarding experience of my college career thus far. When I came into Theta Chi I was barely involved in anything on campus, but I was lucky enough to have brothers that helped shape who I am today. After one year in Theta Chi I served as Secretary, IFC Rep and a Recruitment Committee Chair all at the same time. That initial involvement, coupled with a few core ideals of Theta Chi (promote knowledge, advance culture and build character) helped push me to want to make a difference throughout my campus as well, so I got involved in other campus organizations such as a student government committee, EMBS and for a brief time IEEE. I also attribute my inductance into Blue Key Honor Society entirely to Theta Chi because of the brothers that helped me get involved. To sum up, Theta Chi has, without a doubt, been the best decision I ever made while attending NDSU. I don’t know if I can give back as much as Theta Chi has given to me, but I am trying to do so with my work as Vice President.

Shane Kokinos

I grew up in a small town in Southeastern Minnesota with less than 2000 residents. I am currently a fourth year senior anticipating graduation in December of 2014 with a major in Business Administration and a minor in Economics. Following graduation I intend to stay in Fargo and use my degree to pursue a career in the field of supply chain management.

Theta Chi has played a huge role in my life. I have become a more mature individual and have grown as a leader. When I first came to NDSU my ambitions were limited to just getting by; I wanted to go to school, make friends, and graduate on time. I never would have expected that I'd join a Fraternity, but it's been one of the best decisions I've made in college.

Since joining Theta Chi I've taken on several leadership roles that have improved my communication and leadership skills. Taking on these leadership roles has brought out the best in me, and for that I am extremely grateful. The skills I've gained as a member of Phi Chapter have improved my readiness for professional life.

Matt Kile

I grew up in Golden Valley, MN which is on the western border of Minneapolis. When I turned 16 I got my first job at Noodles and Company and continued to work there throughout the rest of my high school career. I took a few business courses in high school and I always excelled in all of the Finance units, so when I went to college I decided to become a Finance major. I was not sure what I wanted to do exactly with my degree until I took a trip to New York with my Legacy group and met with a company called Operation Hope. This company is a non-profit working to enhance financial literacy in the impoverished regions of New York. They also help with financial crisis management with those who lose their house or business to natural disasters such as hurricane sandy. I was so impressed with what they were doing I decided that when I graduate I want to end up working in the nonprofit sector. I would like to lend my help and expertise to those less fortunate and ultimately help create better financial opportunities for the surrounding community.

Going into college I was much more of an introverted person seeing as I mostly just went to work and school for the majority of my high school career. I was living in the dorms in my first semester and hardly had met anyone. It was by chance that one of my high school acquaintances was a Theta Chi so I decided to go check out the house. Long story short I joined in the first semester of my freshman year. I loved the community as well as the drive for excellence that the members introduced to me. From there I decided that I could be more than I had been. I joined two other organizations late that semester, was elected to be an assistant treasurer, and earned a 3.9 GPA in my first semester as an active. I then moved into the house the following semester and tried to become as active as possible. I made it to all the cleaning events, participated in house volunteering activities, and tried to be as open and helpful a brother I could be. I continued to live up to the standards I had adopted from Theta Chi and earlier this year I was honored with being elected the new treasurer for theta Chi as well as offered a position on the College of Business's Legacy group in which, only twelve students were selected this year. The reason I have accomplished all this while keeping up a high GPA and house involvement is due to the work ethic and standards I have learned from being in Theta chi. I would not have been as much of a go getter or taken as many risks in my college career if I had not joined my freshman year, and that is what I owe all of my success in college to.

Chris St. Amant

Originally from Bloomington, MN, I attended the Academy of Holy Angels before coming to North Dakota State University. I originally came to NDSU as a Computer Engineering major but later switched to Computer Science with a minor in Web Design to better suit my interests. I currently have three different part-time jobs; I work for Campus Attractions as the President of the Board of Coordinators, as well as for NDSU ITS in the Student Technology Services organization as a Communications & Web Specialist, and finally I work as a Sales and Service Representative for Verizon Wireless. I have taken on a number of jobs to help me determine what I like doing and beyond that gain as many skills as I can before I move into my professional career. I am interested in a variety of topics consisting of all things related to new developing technology, great design in all mediums, photography, and more. With these interests I explore new outlets of creativity and have decided that with my education I want to combine technology and great design to make great products easier for everyone to use. With that in mind I decided that I really want to do something in user interface design or user experience, it combines my talents perfectly and having the ability to actually effect how people interact with their computer and complete tasks sounds like one of the greatest jobs in the world. Armed with my education and experience I can't wait to enter the work force and start making an impact.

I joined Theta Chi Fraternity in the Fall of my Freshman year after hearing someone describing it as "work hard, play hard." This was one of the same ideas of another organization that influenced my life greatly, Boy Scouts of America. I decided to rush Theta Chi, much to my mother's dismay, and was initiated that semester. After I joined I was immediately looking for ways that I could help, I did volunteering with other brothers, started in a minor exec position and worked my way up. Finally my parents came to visit and were so impressed by Theta Chi that I knew I was in the right place. Since my freshman year I have had some of my greatest experiences with my brothers both in and out of the house. From traveling to conferences, to pulling pranks on each other, to serving the community I wouldn't trade any of the experiences I have had. Since joining I have become a huge advocate for Greek Life, I went back to my high school to speak to a few of the senior classes and described some of my incredible memories and urged each of them to at least look at Greek Life. Beyond that, I have met one of my absolute closest friends through Theta Chi that I know, had I not joined, I wouldn't have met. Finally, I have learned that being a member of this fraternity pushes you, you have to earn the privilege to call yourself a Theta Chi through academics, leadership, involvement, service and more. Theta Chi pushes you to get the most out of your college experience, but to also expect the most out of yourself.

Editor's Note

Looking back on the Spring 14' semester, I would not have changed a single thing. It was a good academic year for myself, and Phi Chapter. Most of all, I learned tons about my brothers and had the privilege to get to know a few more who were just recently initiated. In due time these will be the brothers leading the chapter forward and making our presence on campus known. It's surprising how fast times fly by when we're busy doing other things. For example, this will be my last time I will be editing The Arrow.

This position has offered a lot of perks, but I think the one I have come to appreciate the most is getting to the alumni from different years. To hear you all share your stories and memories of Phi Chapter has made me realize how privileged I am to be apart of this great group of individuals. Everyday I create new bonds with brothers, and memories that I'll remember for years to come until I'm old of age. One day, I hope I'm able to reminisce my memories with you all and tell you about my time at Phi Chapter. Until then, I plan to make the most out of my time here working to make Theta Chi the best it can be!
